

Who's There? BIOQUAL, Inc.

As of March 2009, there are roughly 30 chimpanzees held at BIOQUAL, Inc., according to personal correspondence with Dr. Mark Lewis, Vice President of Research.

A Freedom of Information Act request was sent to NIH / BIOQUAL on 8/16/05 requesting the names and other identifying information for federally supported chimpanzees. NIH's response said to contact the facility directly. Project R&R has received no response to date from BIOQUAL. Older information from NIH revealed a total of 15 chimpanzees at this facility in 2002, but no further details. A 2005 article in Nature listed a population of 60.

If you have current or historic information on the chimpanzees held at this facility, please contact us.
